The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy has a long-established legacy - the book has sold over 17 million copies in 21 languages and has had a huge effect on popular culture, literature and music. Based on a script by Douglas Adams himself, the film has been 20 years in the making. The story follows Arthur Dent as he makes his grand tour of the galaxy, ably assisted by an omniscient guidebook - voiced, fittingly, by Stephen Fry. Arthur's journey gives us an ironic and hilarious view of life, bureaucracy and mankind whilst looking for the answer to the ultimate question - 'What is the meaning of life'?

The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy is the first feature film from production team, 'Hammer and Tongs', best known for their off-the-wall music videos for the likes of Blur, Badly Drawn Boy and Moloko.
